

Joseph Earley
Associate Professor
Department of Economics
One LMU Drive
Los Angeles, California 90045-2659
(310) 338-4572
jearley@lmu.edu

Education

Ph.D.	Fordham University	Economics	1973
MS	Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute	Economics	1968
BA	Gannon University	Mathematics	1967

Teaching

Years of Experience: LMU since December, 1973

Courses Taught:

- Principles of Economics
- Intermediate Microeconomics
- Intermediate Macroeconomics
- Introductory Statistics
- Introduction to Forecasting
- Regression Analysis
- Econometrics

Primary Areas of Research Interest: Data Dispersion, Applied Statistics and Public Health Econometrics

Selected Recent Publications:

Joseph Earley et al.: " Mental Health Metrics: Does Including the AALS State Aridity Classification Affect the Happy State/Suicide Paradox?" Journal of Arid Lands and Natural Resources published April, 2015 - formerly called the Association for Arid Lands Studies(AALS) Forum , a Journal published at Kansas State University, pp.36-46.

Joseph Earley et al.: " Diabetes and Aridity - Is There a Statistical Relationship? the Journal of Arid Lands and Natural Resources, published April, 2015, pp. 47-54.

James Konow and Joseph Earley : "The Hedonistic Paradox: Is Homo Economicus Happier", Journal of Public Economics, Volume 92, Issues 1-2, February 2008, Pages 1-33.

Joseph Earley " Friedman's Method of Ranks: A Useful Nonparametric Tool for Analyzing Arid and Semiarid Land Data ", Forum of the Association for Arid Lands Studies, 2007, Volume XXIII.

Joseph Earley and Kimberly A. Rodriguez , " Using the NPAR1WAY Procedure to Investigate Philanthropy Survey Data ", Proceedings of the Western Users of SAS Software Annual Conference, 2007, CD_Rom pp. 1-7.

Selected Service Participation

Department of Economics Advisor, Economics Department Hiring Committee, Beta-tester for JMP Software - the SAS® Institute, Former Blue-Ribbon Judge for Milton Friedman Annual Essay Contest, Numerous University Committees including Frank Sullivan Social Justice Committee and BCLA Voting Committee

Membership in Learned Societies

Member: Western Social Science Association, Association for Arid Lands Studies, Western Economics Association, Editorial Review Committee of the Association for Arid Lands Studies Journal of Arid Lands and Natural Resources.